2018 Façade Improvement Grant Application review.

- The commission was informed of information that the Greater Freeport Partnership may be taking over administering the Façade Grant process/funding. This information still needed to be verified, but the commission was made aware of possible changes. Christopher stated that he felt it made sense for the City to be the administrator.
- It was decided that the commission would wait to make any further changes to the application process until there is a full commission.

Other Business

- The Security First has returned the paperwork for payment reimbursement.
- The Freeport Central Business District /Historic Structures Survey will be scanned and sent to commission members
- The Commission was informed that the "Garvens lot" is being foreclosed on and there will be some discussion as to what to do with the space.
- Abet Books has some issues with the front and side façade and addressing the cost of repairs with the demolition company's insurance.
- Joe's Pizza is also having some façade issues stemming from the demolition.
- The commission thought that the Germania lot should be developed.
